The Nativity of the Most Holy Mother of God

Today is Mary, the Most Holy Mother of God's birthday. Anna was her mother, and Joachim was her father. They were both quite old when they had baby Mary, but they were very happy that God gave them this very special child.

We celebrate this big feast at the beginning of the new church and school year, and as the year continues, we see how Mary is a very important example for us to follow.

A long time ago instead of people going to the hospital to get help having a baby, those who helped women give birth came to them. These women were called mid-wives.

Can you count how many baby humans are in this picture?
How many cats? dogs? pickles? hats? bald people?
